- 1 The ship called “The Queen Mary” was one of the finest of British ships. Shortly before the ship’s launch in 1934, Sir Thomas Royden, one of the directors of the shipping company, Cunard, met King George V (the 5th), intending to ask his permission to name the new ship “The Queen Victoria”.
- 2 Royden asked the king if the ship could be named “after the greatest queen this country has ever known.” King George, presuming the words were being said of his wife (Queen Mary), said: “That is the greatest compliment ever paid to my wife. I’ll ask her if your ship may be named after her.” It was only years later that the shipping company mentioned that it had been intending to call the ship “The Queen Victoria”!
- 3 Queen Victoria herself died on this day in 1901.
- 4 There is always a great ceremony when ships are named, and a bottle is broken on the bow of the ship. We celebrate when people are given their name at the time of baptism (christening).
- 5 If someone is not bothered to call people by their name, it might reflect a lack of care and respect. We know that Adolf Hitler’s father never called him by his name, but whistled for him (like for a dog) whenever he wanted him. In some countries, prisoners are called by numbers rather than by their names as a way of de-humanising them, of taking away their individuality.
- 6 Let’s think in silence for a moment of one person whom I could value and respect more. In what specific ways can I show respect and appreciation to that person today? (pause)

7 Let us pray:

God our Father,
you call each of us by name,
and you treasure each of us
individually
as though no-one else exists.
Inspire us
to respect and value
each person
who comes into our lives this day.
Amen.
